“ Our darling Baby Girl,
I can't tell you how empty we feel, our heart is filled with such deep loss. The house is silent without your many daily calls. When the phone rings I think it is you. The plate at dinner I must put back, brings on the hardest tears. We miss you so very much yet know that you are with us, watching over us all. Your pain and suffering is no more as your spirit soars above, free of all your pain and suffering. Your love for singing gospel music is now a daily thing and I feel your joy knowing you are back singing, with the very best. Your outreach of love and kindness in your life was so deep and real, as you did your best to help others in need. The pride we felt watching you fight to continue on, through all the awful things your body put you through was sad yet amazing to watch. Your life gave us strength to overcome; the love of a wonderful daughter; our joy in seeing you fight the negative; the pride in watching you grow and most of all, your smile that light up our hearts. As promised, we will watch over your children with the same pride and love we openly gave to you. My prayers are with you dear and you will never be forgotten. We sure will miss you every day. With all our Love, Mom & Dad

“ My Journey Begins

Although I must travel this journey alone, do not despair.

I will be there to greet you when your journey comes along.

Our foot prints no longer in the sand because our heavenly angels will carry us home.

A Mother's love, cannot be expressed enough and that is why I always say; " I Love You". Remember to share your love as you were taught and be there for each other always, no matter what.

Remember too,

that God's house is always open, just knock and he will answer.

As my journey begins I feel your love and take with me so much Pride and Joy, that you are mine. I will always be with you in spirit!

Through the eyes of the animals, I will watch you grow.

Through the wind on your face, I will feel your touch.

Through the songs you sing, I will feel your joy.

Through your prayer for Jesus, I will feel your love.

God is just a whisper away and know that I too, will hear your words.

I Love You, Mom

“ We find comfort knowing that our “Roo” is finally without seizures and other troubles that she suffered while with us here on Earth. Her deep-rooted faith in God and fulfilling her childhood dream of becoming a mother got her through the toughest of times. She loved being a mom and was very proud of Kristen and Brandon as well as being a wife to Scott. I thank him for giving her those precious gifts. She loved and trusted everyone and was always giving, even when it seemed that she had nothing left to give. We will all miss her terribly and our healing will take a long, long time, but we will be patient with ourselves, with each other, and with God. We thank everyone who has sent us their love and prayers either in person, by email, mail, phone, or internet. As we move into the holidays and the New Year, I wish that we could share our upcoming ‘special’ moments with “Roo” in person, but we know that she will be with us in spirit, able to finally smile without any pain or sadness lingering within her. Our prayers are also with you if you knew and loved my sister as well. She was an inspiration to so many people and we know that she touched countless lives in positive ways. Thank you for loving and remembering her....and us. With much love, Tina and family (Darren, Ryan and Joey)

“ Dear Deb, I will miss you greatly. You will always be remembered as my special friend. We met several years ago at Celebrate Recovery. That's where our friendship began, continued and grew into a shared love as companions and friend. We shared many things in common. We trusted each other. Remember those picnics in the park early last summer. We played yahtzee. You learned the game fast. Brandon and Kristen joined us. You even bought a deluxe edition. Good Memories Deb. You are at peace now - no pain - no tears. New body and the part of heaven is direct physic access to Jesus Christ our Beloved Lord and Savior. Love You Gwen
